

Red Bank Tango welcomes the return of Guest Teachers Ney Melo and Jennifer Bratt!

Ney Melo and Jennifer Bratt are renowned dancers and teachers of Argentine tango.

Ney's tango inspiration and training came from the master couple "Javier Rodriguez y Andrea Missé" and other Argentine masters of the salon style of tango. In 2007, he and his long-time partner Jennifer Bratt established a tango school in the Nob Hill section of San Francisco which reintroduced the traditional salon style to the young generation of West Coast tango dancers. In 2011, they moved back to New York City in order to be closer to their families.

The atmosphere in their classes is relaxed, personable and lively, and they place equal emphasis on the lady's role as the man's. They are dedicated to inspiring students to dance tango with feeling, musicality, cadencia, and connection – the way it is danced in Buenos Aires.
